

Find Courage to Change

The imprint of Assyria has been alive. Our forefathers kept it so with sweat and blood. The soul of Assyria continued to emerge through magnificent earthly displays that left us in awe. But there is a barbaric attempt to kill it as the few brave left on our ancestral lands continue to fight that desperate war.

The people are yearning for Assyria's rise – people from all denominations, political affiliation, civic institutions and all walks of life want it. Just ask the person next to you – they all want it.

Where is the disagreement then?

Let's be brave and frank in facing the reality. It is the few patriarchs and political heads who are suppressing it by either their non-actions, foolish behavior or treasonous actions.

The people are the essence of the church, not the walls or the selected few clergymen, thus, the church must listen to the will of the people. If patriarchs cannot fulfill their moral and ethical duties, they are not worthy to be patriarchs. We stay out – they will crumble without the people.

If the political heads do not agree to work together genuinely, let's get a petition, have the people sign it and deliver it to all concerned world institutions that we the people refuse to have these political heads as our representatives. We will select or elect those who will have the dreams and wishes of the people as their only priority.

We are indigenous people and we demand from world institutions to do what it takes to protect us and help us through our genuine representatives in order to draw the new road map to our survival and prosperity.

Is it time for the people to revolt and get rid of this disease that is imposed on them by the irresponsible and worthless few.

Let's find that courage to change.

Fred Aprim

May 24, 2019